ARCH ATTACK

Bleached, bushy, baroque – we all know that brows are hot right now, but there's more to it than mere fashion point-scoring. In fact, when it comes to anti-ageing your face, nothing gives more instant results than a bit of brow-tox. Currently knocking years off countless A-listers with her 3-D Power Brow treatment is the queen of semi-permanent make-up, Tracey Giles. She uses the latest digital technology to create micro-fine strokes to manipulate the brow arch for a pseudo-facelift effect. 'Your brows will look permanently sleek and your face lifted, without looking like you've had anything done,' says Tracey, whose most requested celebrity eyebrows belong to Kim Kardashian and Megan Fox.

DIY: Dark, dense and sharply arched (AKA anti-ageing) is the look to channel for next season. Try this trick for your own brow-tox: 'I always work on the top of the eyebrow rather than filling the whole thing in, as it's a much lighter and lifting way to add definition,' says make-up artist Wendy Rowe. 'Brush brows upwards to get the shape, then take a soft brow pencil and apply short, sharp, feathery strokes to create a "point". Darken the rest of your brow with an eyeshadow rather than the pencil for a more subtle finish.'

TRY: Bobbi Brown Brow Pencil in Mahogany, £14; Benefit Instant Brow Pencil in Deep, £14; Jemma Kidd i-conic Eyes Brow Pencil in 01 Honey Blonde, £10; Make-Up Store Spare Mascara Wands, £5 (as part of a set).

Tracey Giles Power Brow Service costs from £250 and lasts about a year. ▶
